Flex Natural Cleaner

Using FLEX is very simple, but in order to remove stains as efficiently as possible, please pay attention to the more detailed instructions for proper use:

FLEX is a product that is primarily intended for removing new and fresh stains. It will also remove a certain part of the old stains, but depending on what they were previously treated with: whether the fabric with that stain came into contact with the iron, hot water, or products containing chemical substances etc. It is for this reason that we emphasize a Flex Cleaner as a remover of new stains.

1. Wipe off the excess with which you have stained yourself with a dry tissue or cloth, so that only the stain remains. Spray FLEX over the stain, from a distance of about 2 cm and wait 10-15 seconds.
2. Rub the stain with your fingers for 1-2 minutes, depending on the size of the stain. Some will take off shorter, and some stains require a minimum of patience. Occasionally run a dry cloth over the treated area to pick up the foam and then continue the treatment. When you notice that you have removed the stain as much as you could, start adding a little bit of water. The water will reactivate the FLEX formula. Continue to rub it and the new foam will remove the remnants of the stain, if any. You can also use a wet cloth or a damp cloth here.
3. Finally, it is important to wipe the place where the stain was with a wet cloth, so that no traces of FLEX foam remain after the treated area dries.
4. If it happens that the edges of the stain remain, it is because the dirty foam is not washed off the fabric properly. Please just wipe with a wet cloth or damp cloth over the edges. That way, the effect will be complete.

NOTES:

- When you are able, place your free hand on the other side of the fabric, under the stain itself.
- Make a clear distinction between what is a normal stain and what is dirt and what is for definite washing.
- For thicker fabrics and those sources of stains that contain chemical substances, dyes and the like, sometimes it is necessary to repeat the procedure several times.
- Don't expect FLEX to remove stains from extremely aggressive substances such as metallic paints, adhesives, waterproof paints and waterproof makeup, tattoo inks, spacer markers, and other substances designed to last.
